

Amtrak's Niantic River Bridge Project

Channel User's Update – September 5, 2012

The Project Team is currently developing a schedule for the demolition of the existing bridge. Some operations may affect the navigable channel. This work is being considered for commencement during the first week of October 2012 and will continue through March 2013. Discussions between the Project Team, the Channel Users, and the USCG will assist in development of the schedule; the schedule will be posted at this location when finalized.

Thank You